In collaboration with Hilliard City Schools presents

Innovative Learning Environments: Learning & Leading 21st Century Practices

Although many recognize technology as an essential element of an innovative learning environment, it is not the only factor that drives innovation – it is truly multifaceted in scope.

This four-day conference (with two-day options available) designed for preK-16 educators, administrators and leadership teams, will highlight best learning and leadership practices that support innovative learning environments.

In addition to the scheduled national keynote presenters listed below, the conference will feature spotlight sessions by local educators in: Teaching/Learning, Leadership or Educator Technology Skill Development.

Consider bringing a leadership team from your school/district to use time each afternoon set for creating an action plan for practice.
